NOMINATIONS ARE NEEDED for the Jack Straw Memorial Foundation Board of Directors.

The Jack Straw Board is the license holder for KRAB-FM. As the licensee, the Board has the ultimate responsibility over all aspects of KRAB-FM.

The following are basic requirements for Board positions:

- time to attend one meeting per month, as well as several committee meetings.
- skills to donate to KRAB: financial, graphics, legal, media, music, community contacts
- willingness to shoulder the legal responsibility for a non profit radio station and its facilities.

All interested persons should send a one page resume and letter of intent to:

Mayumi Tsutakawa
c/o KRAB-FM
2212 S. Jackson Street
Seattle, WA 98144

Questions may be directed to her during the day at 464-2440.

Friends,

As we go to press, KRAB is in the middle of another on-air fund-raising Marathon. It runs thru May 3. As I said in last month's program guide, if each of our members could get just one more person to become part of the KRAB family, we would be in a much more secure situation.

With this issue, we begin monthly reports on the financial status of the station. To start us off, Stu Witmer has drawn pie charts to show where the money came from and where it went during the first half of fiscal year 1981: Oct. 1, 1980 thru March 31, 1981. Highlights show that:

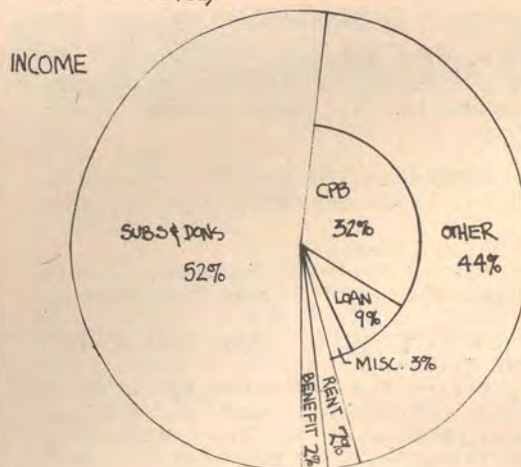

- over half our income came from you, the listeners
- almost one-third of our income came from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, money which in the future is not secure
- less than half our expenses went for salaries, which currently are even less as we are operating with a reduced staff
- over one-third of our expenses are simply for subsistence level existence: utilities, rent, engineering, and a little construction on our new home.

Due to space and time restraints, actual dollar amounts have not been included. We plan to do that next issue.

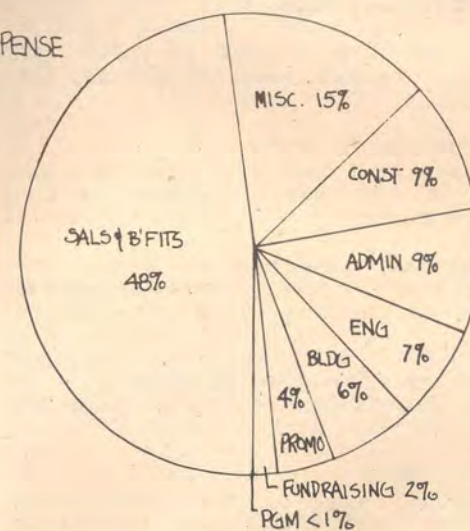

Suffice it to say that non-commercial public access radio cannot come free. Someone has to pay for it, and we want KRAB to become even better so that, for the most part, KRAB listeners, its "consumers," will supply the needed financial security.

By Memorial Day weekend, the Northwest Regional Folklife Festival will bring to the Seattle Center dancers, craftspeople, singers and musicians by the hundreds, and one solitary radio station -- KRAB. For the seventh or eighth or sixth or ninth time (we all remember differently, but "for sure"), KRAB will be spreading the festivity of Folklife weekend to the edges and corners of the Pacific Northwest, through some thirty-six hours of live broadcasting. Expect to hear bluegrass banjos and old-time fiddles, rough-edged blues and graceful caeli tunes, songs old and new, sounds from next door and from the world round. Should you come to the Folklife Festival in person, we hope you will visit the KRAB stage in the Flag Plaza Pavilion. And when you are loafing at home, cruising in your car, weeding your petunia bed or swatting flies in your kitchen, you can be at the Folklife Festival then, too, front row center. Tune in 8:00 p.m. till 11:00 p.m. on May 22nd and throughout the long weekend: 12:00 noon to 11:00 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

UNRESTRICTED CASH FLOW

EXPENSE

KRAB FACTS not fiction: The Board of Directors for KRAB-fm are elected for life terms. What does this mean exactly? There are no criteria for activities and involvement at KRAB as an officer. Yet, they hire and fire the station manager, the person who governs and guides the station. They are also financially responsible for the station -- i.e., if it goes under, they are the ones who dissolve the assets and pay off the bills. They explain their life term policy by the fact that no one who is a current officer has been on the board for more than a few consecutive years. There are now 5 positions available. Are you interested enough in KRAB to help change these policies? Do you have information and/or questions about governing bodies of similar organization. If so, please address yourself to Mediations Committee before May 14.

AND COME SEE FOR YOURSELF:

Next Board Meeting is on May 7th at 7:30 p.m. at KRAB, located on the northwest corner of 23rd & Jackson, around in the back.
